

Excellent Online Bible Study Tools Lisa Button: mywarminghouse.com

StudyLight.org ~ Free online Bible study tools and resources.

BibleGateway.com ~ You can search scripture by keyword, passage, or topic. There are reading plans, devotionals, and audio Bibles too. All free.

Logos.com ~ This site holds more than 33,000 electronic Bible study resources in over 30 different languages.

Sermons and sermon illustrations are available too. This gives you pretty much everything you could possibly need in electronic form; however, there's a fee to gain access to this info.

Blueletterbible.org ~ Commentaries, study tools, maps, devotionals, scripture search. Free.

Biblehub.com ~ Free access to numerous Bible study tools . . . maps, parallel verses, scripture verses in context, cross-references, Greek/Hebrew root words, commentaries, and more. Excellent site.

Biblia.com ~ Free access to a collection of Bibles and Bible reference works. You can use a Bible side-by-side with helps or reference books. You can also use this site to look up cross-references.

Cross-referencing scripture is essential as we dig for God's intended meaning. Too many times, people assign their own meaning to one verse without investigating other verses across the Bible to determine what God is truly communicating to us. Biblia.com makes cross-referencing fun and easy.

Additional Online Resources:

Probe.org ~ Awesome site. Sound, Biblical doctrine.

Apologetics. World religions. Podcasts. Much more. Free.

Carm.org ~ Christian Apologetics and Research Ministry.

Promotes and defends Christian gospel, doctrine, and theology.

For demonstrations on using some of these sites, go to my blog post:

<http://www.mywarminghouse.com/2013/08/19/my-favorite-online-bible-study-resources/>